

To Whom it May Concern,

Kowanyama Aboriginal Shire Council recently retained the Maritime Training School (MTS) to deliver a course of training on site in Kowanyama. The Coxswain's Grade 2 course was delivered over a 10-day activity period, involving both intensive classroom sessions as well as field work with the vessels. We were very pleased with the skill and quality of engagement of the Maritime Training School (MTS) facilitators.

Our team of nine Rangers can present complex challenges. They have different literacy levels, different aptitudes, and span the range from entry level workers to highly skilled senior rangers. The Maritime Training School (MTS) trainers quickly established a rapport with the team and were able to locate the best learning styles for each student.

There were several significant logistical issues which threatened to disrupt the program, but Maritime Training School (MTS) proved themselves more than capable regardless of the situation. They were thoroughly professional and always maintained the trust and respect of the students.

We are completely confident in recommending Maritime Training School (MTS).
